Notes for Guidance of Judges And Competitors at Bloodhound Trials

The following notes are, in effect, hints to Judges, but may equally be of interest to handlers of hounds and spectators at Bloodhound Trials, as they cover some aspects on bloodhound handling that may not be generally known.

1. What may appear to be inexplicable judging at Bloodhound Trials can occur and should be accepted in a sporting spirit. The Judge decides on what he has seen or been advised about and this is usually far more than spectators or competitors can know.
2. As much of the pleasure of competing in Bloodhound Trials will be lost if too many rules are introduced, it is hoped these notes aimed to give guidance to Judges and competitors will not be considered as still more rules to be observed by those competing in Bloodhound Trials.
3. Judging of Bloodhound Trials. The principle task of the Judge is to place in order of merit, those hounds that please him most by their quality of work. The Judge should consider the finding of a runner by hound and handler, without any assistance, to be of paramount importance. The standard of performance in the Intermediate and Senior stakes should be higher than in the Novice and Junior stakes where some assistance may have to be given to ensure a line will be completed.
4. A judge should make every effort to keep a questing hound in sight, observing everything that takes place, he must nevertheless remain well behind the hound and handler, in case the hound overruns its nose and casts back. There is generally no need for the Judge meticulously to follow the exact line in order to watch the hound at work. He may take advantage of any vantage point available to watch. Neither need he follow a hound that has gone astray, unless it is the only means of recalling hound and handler. A hunting horn or whistle may be carried for this purpose.

A Judge should leave the end of any slow line to the care of his assistant to finish, in order to reach the start of the next line on time.

A Judge should check that the hound about to be hunted agrees with the name of the hound on the published programme.

Any hound not brought to the start within a reasonable time of the start may be disqualified.

Any hound chasing farm stock will be disqualified forthwith by the judge. This also applies to hounds hunted on a leash.

5. As it is customary for the Judge to announce the prizewinners at the end of the day's hunting and give his reason for his decision, the taking of short notes are advised.

Trial Permits A trial permit is a necessary qualification for a Bloodhound to enter a Novice Stake at a Bloodhound Trial, and is obtained before closing date of Trials.

An approved Judge appointed by either the Association of Bloodhound Breeders or the Bloodhound Club will carry out this test. Before signing the 'Permit' the Judge must be satisfied that:

- a) the hound is capable of hunting a line 1 mile long, ½ hour cold (Restricted Permit)
- b) The hound has been seen to be steady with farm stock while running free and hunting a line (Full Permit)

6. Commendable Points in Bloodhound Hunting

A hound at work should be seen to be gay, possess thrust and drive, and in short - be a pleasure to watch. A Judge, however, should not overlook the older or heavier hound that may well be the best seeker of a lost person but in a less spectacular way. A good hound will show obvious keenness to hunt, concentration on its work, freedom from distractions, lack of nervousness, ability to cast itself when scent deteriorates or when the line has been foiled, disregard for game including foxes and deer (freedom from change), steadiness with farm stock especially sheep, ability to negotiate obstacles such as fences, hedges, walls and water, clearly marking those fences, gates etc., that the runner has touched, and is reasonable obedient to the handlers commands.

7. Faults Changing to another scent, lack of enthusiasm and concentration in hunting, tendency to potter and urinate frequently, inability to negotiate obstacles, out of control of its handler, rioting on farm stock, fur or feather, timidity or nervousness with quiet farm stock.

8. Method of Handling Handlers are expected to operate in a natural manner as would be expected of them were they participating in an actual search for a missing person or child.

9. Lines Though care is taken to ensure lines are routed so ground conditions are similar for all hounds in the Stake, scenting conditions may not be equal. Last changes by a runner to avoid badly foiled ground may not be possible or wise. A hound on a poor scent may possibly overshoot a turn and then in casting wide regain the correct line after missing out a loop. The Judge will not necessarily penalise the hound as being at fault, as lack of land may have required the line having had to be laid with too tight a loop in it.

The direction and strength of the wind will have considerable influence on the way the hound 'owns' a line. With a wind blowing 'head on' a hound will cast (quarter) left and right. With a following wind the hound may pull out to avoid its handler, the Judges and perhaps its own scent. The Judge and handler, in such conditions, should carefully regulate their distance from a hound to permit the hound to make good its ground. With the wind blowing from left to right (or vice versa) of the line, especially on a 'hot' line, a hound may be seen 'owning' the line quite a distance downwind and in fact may pass objects on a different side to that walked by the runner.

10. Time Factor There is no time limit laid down for completion of a hunt. On slow lines the Judge will need to leave in time to start the next line on time. His assistant will remain if the hound is hunting and working well. If the hound is not working well the handler should be informed of the line to be followed to find the runner.
11. Leashing of Hounds Hounds that have not passed the test as being safe with farm stock must be hunted on a leash. These hounds are marked in the catalogue as 'Restricted'. Hounds that have passed the test as being safe with farm stock have the choice of being hunted free or leashed. A hound hunted on a leash obviously will not cover the ground as quickly as a hound running free. No leashed hound should be penalised for time taken if the hound is clearly seen to be eagerly hunting the correct line with the handler following to the best of his/her ability and no time is wasted by the hound.

12. Advice to the Handler by the Judge It is permissible for a handler to tell the Judge at commencement of a hunt whether he wishes the judge to put him back on the line should he go far wrong from the correct line and is obviously unlikely to regain it. A judge should not give advice/assistance to a handler except when asked, or in the case of a hound and handler going too close to some danger, or when approaching prohibited land, or likely to spoil another line.
13. Duties of Assistant to the Judge The assistant to the judge should render all possible assistance to the judge in order that he can keep the hound at work in view. He should ensure that the judge leaves a slow hunt so as to arrive at the beginning of the next line in good time to prevent the start being delayed. He should inform the judge of the standard of hunting seen on the ends of those lines the judge was unable to see, as such information will be needed by the judge to make a decision.
14. Prizes Winning a first or second prize in a stake qualifies a hound for entry in the next higher stake apart from Intermediate stake where only a first place can qualify for Senior stake. Equal placing's are prohibited

Certificate of Merit A certificate of Merit is not a prize, but may be awarded to hounds, not in the prize list, who show great merit.

15. Withholding of prizes The Judge is empowered to withhold prizes if, in his opinion, hounds competing do not show sufficient merit. When prizes are withheld the order should be from the lowest upward (i.e. there will be no withholding of prizes higher than those awarded)

In the Senior stake the awarding of a Bloodhound Working Trial Certificate will not be recommended if the hound is given help by the Judge to enable it to complete its line, or if the hound fails to identify its runner in a satisfactory manner.

16. Speaking Trophies Speaking trophies will be awarded by the judge to the hound he considers speaks best to the correct line
17. Identification An identification trophy will be awarded to a hound that makes the best identification. It should not be awarded unless the hound hunts an appreciable part of its line, particularly, the last few hundred yards. A hound that is controlled by its handler to identify, cannot be considered as having a free choice and should not be considered for the identification trophy, or in the case of the Senior stake should not be considered for the Kennel Club Working Trial Certificate.
18. Management of Trials The management of a Bloodhound trial is entrusted to the Trial Manager who shall be responsible for ensuring that regulations are observed, but he may not interfere with the judges decision which shall be final.

The trial manager will decide on any matter not related to judging and not provided for in the Kennel Club Rules and Regulations for Bloodhound Trials. He may call upon the Judge to assist with the decision which shall be final.

19. Duties of Stewards/Marshalls To brief and transport runners to and from the lines they are required to walk. Ensure runners commence their walk at the time laid down for the line. If possible, check with the runners at the end of their lines any variations they may have had to make and communicate such changes to the judge or the assistant. After the hunt has started, stewards may keep spectators informed where the lines should finish. They may inform handlers where their lines start and of any delays that may be expected. Give assistance to handlers at the end of a hunt to get back to their vehicles.
20. Weather conditions The judge together with the Trials manager will decide when bad weather conditions justify a postponement of the Trials.
21. Bitches in season Owners of bitches found to be in season on the date of the Trials should notify the Trials Manager. Entry fees will be returned in full. If present at a Trial, a bitch in season shall be disqualified by the Judge and will be removed from the Trials ground.
22. While officiating Judges should not
Smoke at any time.
Consume or have available alcoholic drinks.
Engage in mobile phone conversation with anyone other than Assistants or Line Walkers
23. The Working Trials Secretary should ensure that all Judges are provided with a copy of this guide

ADVICE TO RUNNERS

Dress: As a long wait may occur at the end of the line clothing should be both warm and waterproof. A timepiece should be carried.

Footwear: Must be the wearers own. Should be preferably not too new and preferably be of leather construction. Rubber boots, or composition footwear should be avoided if possible.

Smeller: This should be a small item of the runners own clothing. Handkerchiefs, socks, ties, or head scarves are ideal. Large items of clothing such as raincoats, jackets etc. are not suitable, as some handlers take the smeller with them.

The start: Start walking at the time ordered. Position two flag sticks (provided) about 12 yards (11 metres.) apart to indicate by their line, the direction of your start. Attach the smeller to the first flag stick.

Line to be walked: The route you are to walk will be given using a map, make sure you understand the route instructions, but if an error is made do not back track continue to walk in a smooth circle to recover the correct line. Inform the stake manager if you have gone wrong.

Note: The Judge should be informed if any serious departures are made from the route. Do not walk along animal tracks or hard pathways. Look ahead when about to cross fences, hedges, ditches etc. for a convenient crossing place. Do not touch fences, gates etc. if not actually passing through. Circle resting cattle, but keep on the correct line if cattle are moving around. Small patches of burnt heather or well trodden ground should be circled otherwise walk the correct line.

Finish: If possible always remain at the end of the line you have walked. If you do leave the end of your line, mark it so you can return to the exact spot. If you leave the end of your line to watch the progress of the hound that is searching for you, do not get upwind of the line you have walked at any time, as a bloodhound may very well smell your 'air' scent even if you are in a closed car. Do not get closer than a quarter of a mile downwind of your line in case the hound loses your line and in casting wide picks up your new scent.

Ask two spectators at the end of your line to gather in a loose circle in order that the hound will need to make a selection before it can 'identify'. Act naturally until the hound 'identifies' you by clearly wagging its stern or by standing to lick your face. Then generally fuss it up and praise it.

Be prepared to direct any handler who's hound has obviously lost your line, onto the last 100 yards or so of your line, in order that the hound can possibly make a satisfactory 'run in'.

Some young bloodhounds are very timid and will not approach the runner at the end of the line. In Novice Stake Only, if this is seen to be so, you may encourage it by calling it to you.

Should you go seriously wrong and lose your way when walking a line, continue walking until you reach a road, then wait until someone finds you. The line you have walked will still be useable if you have walked the correct distance.

ASSOCIATION OF BLOODHOUND BREEDERS WORKING PERMIT AND STOCK TEST PROCEDURE

The Association encourages members to train their hounds to hunt the 'clean boot'. This is vital if the breed is to maintain its accepted prowess at hunting a human quarry on a cold line.

Before competing at Working Trials, hounds have to obtain a working permit.

The Association of Bloodhound Breeders now has a standard procedure in place for the testing of hounds for working permits to enable those interested to compete in the twice yearly Champion Bloodhound Trials.

The procedure for a hound applying for a full permit remains the same. The hound will be asked to hunt a line one mile long, half an hour cold, going across country and if possible hunting through farm stock, in particular sheep. The hound will also be required to be seen running free through sheep.

A hound holding only the first part of a permit, who comes back at a later stage for a stock test, will be asked to fulfil part two of the procedure.

Part Two of the permit - the Stock Test - requires the hound to hunt a line half a mile long and half an hour cold, through a substantive number of sheep, without chasing or worrying the sheep. After successfully hunting through the sheep the hound is then taken back into the sheep unleashed and some of the sheep are driven across in front of the hound. The handler must remain silent and the hound must not chase the sheep.

Application for a permit test must be made in writing to the Secretary. Telephone applications will be accepted but written confirmation must be sent to the Secretary before the test takes place. The Secretary will then make arrangements with an approved judge and inform the owner of the hound accordingly.

A Working Permit card will be sent by the Secretary to the Judge concerned prior to the permit test unless the hound already has part one in which case the owner must take the permit card to the test. The Judge will be asked to report back to the Secretary the result of the test.

A.B.B. and B.C. permit cards are not to be mixed, a hound must have both parts approved by the same club.

The Association has a number of experienced judges with access to sheep in sufficient numbers for stock tests. The Secretary will endeavour to use a venue as convenient as possible for the handler but this will depend on circumstances prevailing at the time.

A judge may ask a handler to remain silent during a stock test.

Hounds can take Part One of the working permit after they reach the age of six months however hounds must be 12 months old before they can take Part Two of the working permit.

Should a hound fail its stock test there will be a one month cooling off period before the hound is re-tested. It is preferred that a re-test, especially for the stock test, should be carried out by the same judge whenever possible. This procedure should also be followed in the case of a hound that has had its full permit revoked. Permit tests are free to members of the Association, there is a £5 fee for non-members.
